In case of bad weather conditions, and for safety reasons, the organization reserves the right to stop the race in progress or to modify the time limits. All decisions will be taken by the Jury.

In the case of a wave start, the time barriers are applied from the start time of the last wave.

If the participant wishes to continue the race, his/her number will be collected by the head of the post and the participant will no longer be considered as a participant in one of the races of the Event and will therefore no longer be under the responsibility of the organizer.

Any person disrespecting the volunteers in charge of this function will be permanently banned from running in all events organized by the Organizer.

The number of the runner will be communicated to the race headquarters in order to avoid unnecessary searches. The timing chips will be removed from the number by the head of the post. The number will be removed and can be collected after the race, and the runner will be invited to use the available transport to return to Forcalquier. Any person disrespecting the volunteers in charge of this function will be permanently banned from the race on all the events of the Event.

6.1.1. Fight against doping

The organizer draws the attention of participants to the respect of the rules of sporting integrity and sporting ethics, particularly those relating to the fight against doping.

Any person who is subject to a provisional or definitive sanction by an anti-doping organization governed by the WADA Code (a "sanctioned person") is prohibited from participating in the event, whether as a participant, team manager or official.

As stipulated in the race regulations, the Organizer reserves the right to test all participants with the relevant authorities. Therefore, in accordance with the WADA code, it is the responsibility of the participant to check that the substances or methods used are not on the current list of prohibited substances and methods. You can check by clicking on one of these two links: <http://www.wada-ama.org/fr/ressources> ; <https://www.afld.fr> .

7. Supply station and semi-autonomy

The Event races are semi-autonomous races. Semi-autonomy is defined as the ability to be autonomous between two supply stations, both in terms of food (solid and liquid), clothing and safety equipment, allowing for adaptation to any problems encountered or foreseeable (bad weather, physical problems, injuries, etc.).

Only participants wearing a visible number and duly checked have access to the refreshment posts.

Two types of supplies are available at the supply stations:

- Liquid supply: still water, sparkling water, cola;
- Complete supply: drinks (as above), hot meal (on the life bases for the Ultra de Provence), fresh fruit, dried fruit, cheese, ham, salted cakes, biscuits, sweet cakes, bread, (may change depending on health conditions)

The above list of items available at the refreshment posts is neither contractual nor exhaustive. It is subject to change depending on the availability of these items from suppliers.

Waste bins are available at each feed station and must be used. Any participant seen throwing waste on the course will be disqualified.

8. Safety and care

A medical team will be present throughout the event. It will be able to intervene on the course by any appropriate means (4x4, motorbike, quad) in case of necessity.

There will also be a life base installed on the course of the Ultra de Provence.

It is up to a participant in difficulty or seriously injured to call for help:

- By going to a first aid post;
- By calling the race headquarters (emergency number written on the race number);
- By asking another runner to call for help.

It is the responsibility of each participant to assist any other participant in danger and to call for help. Any problem or accident must be reported immediately to the nearest control post and/or by calling the race emergency number (PC course).

Do not forget that all kinds of hazards, linked to the environment and the race, can make you wait longer than expected for help (between 5 and 30 minutes in normal circumstances - which can go up to 40 minutes in certain cases = FFA recommendation). Your safety will then depend on the quality of the equipment you have put in your bag.

All medical, paramedical, first aid and official guide personnel, as well as any person designated by the race management are empowered to:

- remove from the race any competitor deemed unfit to continue the event;
- force any competitor to use any compulsory equipment;
- evacuate by any means any riders they consider to be in danger;
- direct patients to the most appropriate care structure.

A rider who calls on a doctor or a first-aid attendant submits to his authority and undertakes to accept his decisions.

The costs resulting from the use of exceptional means of rescue or evacuation (e.g. heliport) will be borne by the rescued participant who will also have to ensure his/her return from the place where he/she has been evacuated. It is the sole responsibility of the participant to constitute and present a file to his/her personal insurance within the time limit.

If you are unable to reach the race headquarters, you can call the emergency services directly (especially if you are in an "emergency only" zone) 112 from France.

We invite you to contact two organizations by clicking on the following links (<http://www.assurance-multi-sports.com/> or <https://assur-connect.com/>) in order to take out insurance covering mountain rescue, search costs, death, permanent disability and repatriation.

9. Delivery of race bibs

Please note that, in the context of the health measures applicable at the time of the event, changes may be made to the distribution of race bibs.

At the time of registration, runners must present their race bag with all the compulsory equipment for the installation of a timing chip and the control of the equipment. The number will not be given to participants who do not present the compulsory equipment for the race for which they are registered.

Each race number will be handed over to the participant on presentation of an identity document with photo, without this document the number will not be handed over. The collection of race bibs takes place in Forcalquier, in the heart of the "village" dedicated to the event.

The times and dates of the bib collection will be communicated later according to the evolution of the sanitary measures.

10. Cancellation in case of force majeure of part or all of the races

Force majeure is defined as declared or undeclared war, general labour strike, epidemic diseases, quarantine, fire, exceptional floods, accidents or other events beyond the control of the organization forcing the latter to cancel the event, or forcing the administrative authorities not to authorize the event.

10.2. During the event

In the event of "force majeure" occurring after the event has started, the organizer may stop the event at any time. In this case, if this happens while runners are running, they must follow the instructions given by the volunteers when they arrive at a feed point or checkpoint and must respect them. No refunds or compensation can be claimed.
